The Inauguration of Catherine Arnold

Tomorrow (Saturday 5 October), Catherine Arnold will be inaugurated as 15th Master of St Edmund's.

E-mails will go out later today reminding those of you registered to view in the Chapel & Garden Room respectively of that booking and of other logistical details about the ceremony.

If you are not booked in, the CR will also be screening the ceremony, and it will be broadcast live on YouTube (via the College's channel), and via Instagram live!

CUSU BME Campaign Term card available

As October marks Black History Month, definitely it's worth a look!

Also we are very proud of our CR's first ever BME Officer Gurashish for representing ethnic minority students not just here in College, but across the whole university, and for bringing this term card to wider attention.

50 years of women at St Edmund's!

2019/20 marks 50 years of women at St Edmund's. Significantly, St Edmund's became co-ed before all of the all-male Colleges, a claim to fame and something to be proud of!

To that end a mini-website has been created which will develop over the course of the year.

In particular, we are looking for women (students, Fellows, staff) who may be interested in writing about their time at St Edmund's, what they've been working on, where they're heading. We have already an exemplar story, of Margie Geib Wilkinson, the first woman to matriculate at St Edmund's – well worth a read!

If you might be interested in sharing your story, or finding out more, please do get in touch on press@st-edmunds.cam.ac.uk
